About AWCP!

The Association of Workers' Compensation Professionals (AWCP), with its headquarters in the Sacramento region, has been providing quality education to our members for 19 years. As a workers' compensation professional association, AWCP has taken pride in offering timely and relevant educational opportunities, including the renowned Annual Workers' Compensation Conference. Our goal is to establish, maintain, and promote a comprehensive curriculum of continuing education offerings; to plan and monitor activities using the association's strategic plan as a framework to enhance knowledge of the work comp industry.

The AWCP Board represents a large spectrum of workers' compensation professionals who are dedicated to providing educational programs and opportunities to Claims Examiners, Claims Managers, Attorneys, Nurses, Risk Managers, Service Providers, and Human Resources Managers.

October's Featured Speaker and Topic

Facebook Follies

Facebook Follies "Early Detection in a Social Media World" is an interactive, fun course designed to bring awareness to what claimants are posting on Social Media, what public information is available, and how and when to use the evidence collected. We will also cover why it is critical to verify and validate information at the onset of a new loss.

Speaker:

Mr. Christopher Champlin is the President and Co-Founder of the C&W Group, a nationally recognized background investigations firm specializing in early detection and social media reports.

Prior to forming the C&W Group, Mr. Champlin served as SIU Director for a national private investigations firm, surveillance supervisor, claims investigator and was an insurance broker. In total Mr. Champlin has over 15 years in the insurance industry. Prior to that he was a decorated police officer in Northern California and served on active duty with the United States Marine Corps Fleet Anti-Terrorism Unit as well as the U.S. Army Reserves as a Combat Engineer.

Mr. Champlin serves on the Board of Directors of AWCP, is the Vice President of the Northern California Police Officers Association, and is a member of the California Association of District Attorney Investigators. In his spare time, he is a soccer and baseball coach for his children's perspective teams.
